Jackson, January 5.—In the senate today regular work was begun, and a number of local bills introduced, among which were the following: A resolution to take into consideration the subject of public lands, the title of which has been soautted by forfaiture or purchased by the State for taxes; a bill to extend the time for collection of taxes in Noxubes county for the year 1871; a bill to change the time f holding chancery courts in the fourth

On motion, the governor's veto mea-sages were taken up. Among the bills vetoed, and which caused some discus-sion, was that of the peniteniary bill. The governor says it is founded upon false principles and makes extravagant demands upon the public reasury. He says, also, that the bill properse to absolve the State from the responsibility of the other and apprehim or the property of the says, also, that the bill properse and apprehim or the says, also, that the bill properse and apprehim or the says and apprehim the says and apprehim or the says and apprehim the says are says and apprehim the says and apprehim the says and apprehim the says are says and apprehim the says and apprehiments and apprehiment keeping and punishing criminas. by turning them over to private citiza. s whose chief object is to make their labor a source of private gain. The amount of labor that may be required is left to hu-manity, and may be measured by the selfahness of the leasee. He says that reforming the criminal, which should be the ohief objectmishment is not contemplated in this sure, which is based upon moneyed atlone; but the repulsive and the State is in no condition to pay, and it is also largely in excess of the amount meeded, under wise management, for the purposes of the positionitary. He exhibits the total expenditures provided for during fitteen years, by the lesse, to be $819,000 He closes by estimating the number of convicts, and expressing the hope that the legislators would coincide with his opinion.
